

A Letter to our Members

December 15, 2021

On behalf of your Board of Directors, I am pleased to announce Glenn Bolger has accepted the position of Chief Executive Officer effective January 1, 2022. Glenn will succeed outgoing CEO Allison Chaytor-Loveys, who retires at the end of December 2021.

Presently Glenn Bolger is Chief Operating Officer at NLCU, a position he has held since 2004. As COO, he is responsible for the successful operation and profitability of all business units, ensuring superior financial products and solutions are provided to you with an exemplary level of service. Portfolios under his purview include the credit union's branch operations, Member Solutions Centre, human resources, marketing, wealth management, insurance, and facilities. Glenn has a strong understanding of NLCU's culture, strengths, and opportunities. He also has an impressive breadth of knowledge and experience in credit union system matters, from legislation to information systems.

The Board looks forward to working with Glenn on strategies that ensure NLCU continues to meet your financial needs and service expectations.

Sincerely yours,

Maureen Singleton
President, NLCU
